He leaves a wife and two children, and was thirty-three years old. The funeral was held Monday morning from the Mass undertaking rooms, the services being in charge of a priest of the Greek orthodox church, from Omaha. Interment was made in Columbus Cemetery.

One of the most delightful of the numerous parties, given recently, was the one o'clock luncheon given Tuesday, by Mrs. E. H. Chambers and Mrs. C. D. Evans, at the home of the former. The affair was in honor of Mrs. Williams, of Omaha, who is the guest of Mrs. Chambers. The decorations were pink and white carnations and southern palms. The new winter sun parlor, just completed, is a most attractive spot. Daintily draped white curtains, subdued the glare of the sun; hanging baskets, climbing vines, and birds, suggested an ideal summer day. Instrumental music was a part of the afternoon's entertainment. The out of town guests were Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Whaley, of Omaha, Mrs. Olsen, of Lincoln, and Mrs. Miller, of Clarinda, Iowa.

Saturday evening Miss Anna McTaggart, accompanied by her brother Thomas, left for Denver, where Sunday at 12:30, Miss McTaggart was united in marriage to Mr. R. S. Washburn, formerly of this city. The ceremony was performed at the Catholic Cathedral, and was witnessed only by Miss Marguerite Mahon, an aunt of the bride, and Mr. Thomas McTaggart, a brother. The bride wore her traveling gown of blue, with which she wore a white beaver hat. Her only ornament was a beautiful lavileer, a gift of the groom. Miss McTaggart is well known in this city both in social and in business circles. For two years after her graduation from the Columbus high school she taught school but for the past year has been associated with her sister Marguerite, in the dress making parlors. Mr. Washburn is not an entire stranger to Columbus people having been employed as bookkeeper at the Columbus Mercantile store until two months ago, when he left for Denver to take a position as bookkeeper in the May Company store at that place. Mr. and Mrs. Washburn will be at home to their friends, after December 6, at Denver.

Although election week, and a busy week Judge Ratterman found time to issue marriage licences to Joseph Mikos and Miss Agnes Curao, of Columbus; James Larson, of Leigh, and Miss Nora Kincaid, of Creston; Frank Lamb, of Monroe and Miss Edith Bethscheider, of Platte Center, and Davis Brown and Miss Florence Belor, of Clarks. The last named couple were married by the Judge.

The Columbus school children are enjoying a vacation from their school duties this week. All except four of the city teachers are in Omaha this week attending the State Teachers' Association, which is in session today and Friday. Misses Brugger and Duke Kindergarten teachers, and Misses Weave and DeVoe, primary teachers, will not close their rooms this week, but will visit Omaha and Lincoln schools next week. Professor Campbell is one of the prominent speakers at the convention and gives an address on "Agricultural High Schools."

Considerable surprise was occasioned in the city this week by the news of the marriage of Miss Vera Stevenson, daughter of F. N. Stevenson, to Herman Stein, a well known Cincinnati merchant. The marriage took place in Covington Kentucky, and the news was broken to the Omaha relatives and friends through the Omaha newspapers. Members of the family stated Wednesday evening that they knew nothing of the marriage more than the story published in the papers. The many friends of the bride will wish her the best that life can afford in her new home. The young couple will make their home in Cincinnati.

In last week's issue, we unintentionally omitted mention of the Halloween entertainment given by the ladies Guild at the Orpheus Hall. The decorations here were very elaborate Jack o' lanterns alternating with palms were used in place of the usual foot lights. They decorated the balustrade surrounding the gallery, they lighted two gaily decorated fortune tellers tents, which were presided over by local talent, who "dipped into the future as far as human eye could see" and started a few patrons by their unexpected display of ability in that direction. A cake walk was a feature of the evening entertainment. Three impartial judges awarded the prize, a cake, to M. D. Karr and his partner. Late in the evening the coffee booth presided over by Mrs. George Thomas and Mrs. Homer Robinson was the most popular corner of the hall. Dancing continued until midnight. The entertainment was such a decided success socially and financially that the Ladies' Guild hope to make it an annual affair.

One of the most unique opening this city has seen, occurred last Friday afternoon when the Misses Rusche threw open the "Ye Gift Shop" to the public. The first impression as the visitor stepped into the room made them exclaim, "Oh how beautiful!" The wall were hung with picture of every size in water colors and pastel work, fancy work, tooled leather and Hand painted cards filled the cabinets, indeed as some one said you could find everything there from a magnificent picture to as small hand painted sachet bag. To add to the beauty red carnations were used effectively in the decoration and each guest was presented with one of the beauties. The young ladies are certainly to be congratulated on their splendid work. Miss Catherine who graduated this fall from the Chicago Art Institute with high honors, certainly upheld that honor in her work. Some of the foremost artists spoke very highly of her work while in the east, and Columbus has shown in the last few days that they too can appreciate an artist. Miss Eleanor, who is associated with her sister in the work deserves a large share of the credit for the "Gift Shop", as most of the fancy work shown as the work of Miss Eleanor. Columbus ought to be proud of their two new business women and their splendid shop.

A WOMAN'S METHOD OF COERCING JUSTICE

Frightened Both Judge and Spectators by Removing Part of Her Clothing.

Pittsburg, Pa.—While passing upon the usual stream of cases the other morning police judge Natali had before him a complaining witness one Mrs. Ben Carpi, known to Pittsburg's olive oil circles as the most beautiful woman in the Italian colony. To demonstrate that she had received a beating as alleged, Mrs. Carpi insisted on disrobing to show her scars.

Men and boys cast aside respect for his office and were trying to get out before the judge could. The jam at the door continued, as those who had got out turned on their heels and tried to peek in again, thereby colliding with those who were in and wanted to get out.

Mrs. Carpi still insisted that the judge examine her scars and bruises. The judge is a married man and Mrs. Carpi has a husband.

Finally, in desperation, the judge summoned a jail matron, who closed all the doors, and in about a half an hour made Mrs. Carpi put her clothes back where they belonged.

When the case was resumed it developed that Mrs. Carpi's husband had given a party to several friends, and to show that the party was a success in every way, some one started a friendly argument which left the house standing but badly shaken. During the festivities, Mrs. Carpi came in violent contact with several fists and pieces of furniture. The celebrants were arrested and she appeared as complainant. The men were fined for disturbing the peace, the case was closed to the evident relief of judge and attaches; but Mrs. Carpi, who by the way is of an aristocratic family (she says) still wonders at the justice which refused to consider prima facie evidence.

J.—William Smith, who occupies part of a double house on South Second street, was arranged in the city police court on complaint of Mrs. Alice Gudgeon, who resides in the other half of the building. She claims that Smith, one night recently, while her husband was away, entered her apartments and tried to kiss her.
